

Did you know that...?

A hay baler collects dried grass from a meadow and compresses it into large round bales.
A single bale can weigh several hundred kilograms!
Inside the baler, the hay is gradually rolled and compressed until it forms a firm cylinder, which is then secured with netting or twine.
Farmers can store these bales and use the hay to feed cows, horses, and sheep during winter.

IQcoloring.com